County Okays Area Action Link

Milam, Falls Robertson, Brazos Join

County Commissioners Monday voted to sponsor a Community Action Agency with Falls, Robertson and Brazos Counties. The Commissioners action paves the way to establishing day care centers for children and to aid school drop-outs and adults who need job taining.

County Judge O. B. Harden said the Agency would not tie up any County funds, but would set ground work to bring Federal funds in. He said housing and volunteer hours would be credited for the local share.

Harden said he welcomed the tie with Robertson, Falls and Brazos Counties. "Historically we have worked together," Harden said. "Robertson and Milam are both esentially rural counties, we are served by the same District Judge and State Representative, and are in the same Highway Dept. division."

In other county business Commissioners accepted a bid from Anderson Machinery Co. for a front-end loader for Pct. 1. Bids were for $13,000 from Anderson and Darr Equpment Co., and $16,499 from Brown - Ferris Machinery Co.

Sealed bids for two new cars for the Sheriffs Dept. were also opened Monday with Gaither Motor Co. submitting the low bid. Gaither's bid was $3,913.96 and Hefley Stedman bid $4,751.08.

Commissioners also voted to enter into agreement with the Criminal Justice Council for a teletype machine for the Sheriff's office. The teletype would put Milam County law enforcement officers in instant touch with other enforcement offices across the state.

Judge Harden estimated the local expense for the service would be under $40 a month.

First Witness Heard

Marijuana Trial Underway

First witness in the State vs. David M. Elliott, Walter Homer Snow, Jr., and Frederick Earl Callaway was on the witness stand Wednesday morning in Milam 20th District Court.

Leonard E. Smith, a farmer in the Thorndale area, testified for about an hour Tuesday afternoon in the case charging the three young Austin men with possession of marijuana.

A venire of 54 had been questioned by attorneys for the State and defense Tuesday, until about 3:30 p.m. when a 12-man petit jury was enpaneled.

District Attorney John B. Henderson, Jr., called Smith, state's first witness, who identified the three young men, all in their early 20's, as the three he had seen moving amidst plots of plants said by Department of Safety Experts to be marijuana growing along a farm-to-market road south of Thorndale.

Smith said he took the license number of a nearby parked car, a blue 1968 or 1969 Chevrolet Camaro, which he later saw them driving the afternoon of May 19, 1969.

Smith testified he observed the three in "plots of plants" along the road, heard them talk but could not hear what they said, saw them carry buckets and saw them lean over the plants, but could not see what they were doing to the plants. Smith said he was unobserved.

Defense attorney Wallace Shropshire, former county attorney in Travis County, objected to Henderson's introducing as evidence a piece of paper on which Smith testified he had written the license number of the car before calling the Texas Highway Patrol.

After reframing of questions identifying the paper, District Judge W. C. Wallace overruled defense objection and admitted the paper, with notations other than license number, as state evidence.

Smith also said he called members of the Highway Patrol from Rockdale who met him in Thorndale, and who later stopped the three young men in the late-model automobile near Thorndale, according to Smith's testimony.

Henderson and defense attorney Robert Ellett indicated testimony probably would be complete by Wednesday afternoon.

A witness list Wednesday indicated the State intended to call several highway patrolmen, Thorndale area farmers, Thorndale constable P. L. Paris, and DPS experts from Austin.

Witnesses subpeonaed included Harvey Smith, owner of the land lease on which marijuana plants is said to have growing, Highway Patrolmen R. E. Eason and Jerry Randall, said by Leonard Smith Tuesday to have stopped and questioned the three young men; Lyle Conley, an area farmer; R. E. Scholl, a DPS narcotics agent; and C. H. Beardsley, a DPS chemist.

The three defendents from Austin were indicted by a Milam Grand Jury in August on charges of possession of marijuana, a charge carrying a penalty of two years to life, according to Dist. Atty. Henderson.

Jurors are: Williard Bush, Donald Glass, John Dockall, Frank R. Warren, L. L. Keen, J. C. Hayman, Fred Jones, Leon C. Kleypas, Leon J. Hurta, Frank Kubiak, Harry D. Woods, E. I. Elliott.

Drilling Resumes In New Field

Drilling resumed in Milam County's new Cherokee Navarro field east of Milano after a lull caused by wet grounds from recent rains which had hampered moving in rigs and equipment to drillsites.

Several new wildcats that were scheduled for the field in December and January were reported to have work getting underway on them early this week.

Byron Rose of Houston, largest operator in the field, who has drilled three good producers, has scheduled three more wildcats.

They are his No. 4 Ray Woods on a 160 acre lease in B. F. Swoap Survey and his No A-2 and No. A-3 Ray Woods located on a 174 acre tract in James Welch Survey.

Drilling operations now are underway on one or more of these tests.

Another operator in the field Victor P. Head of Houston, reportedly had work underway on his No. 1 Marjorie Jordan, which he scheduled in late December as a 3,750 foot Navarro try.

Location of this wildcat is on a 101 acre lease in B. F. Swoap Survey and is an attempt to extend the Cherokee Navarro field to the northeast.

David M. Thomas, Jr. of Farmington, New Mexico, a third operator in the field, was reported to have brought in his No. 1 Coleman and Wallace Beard as an oiler recently, but no information has been released about this well, which is located on a 99 acre lease in James Welch Survey.

The increase in drilling and good production reported from wells in the Cherokee Navarro field has caused an increase in leasing activity in that area of south Milam County in recent weeks.

County Readies For '70 Census

Qualifying tests for census takers in Milam County will be given Monday, February 16 at 2 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Cameron.

The tests are for those persons who have applied for the positions, and for any others who are interested, according to J. Estel Johnston of Rockdale, chairman of the Milam County Republican Party.

Johnston said he will furnish additional information to interested persons upon request. Hiring of census takers is traditionally by recommendation of the county chairmen of the political party in office.

United States census questionaires will be mailed to most Milam Countians in March. Some will be asked to return the completed form, postage free, by April 1.

Others will be instructed to fill out the form and hold it until a census taker comes for it, and some will be called on individually by a census enumerator.

The census takers will work about six hours a day for three to four weeks, Johnston said, and will be assigned a territory if they pass the test given Monday.

They will pick up designated forms, and will complete the more detailed reports at some houses.

Robert C. Ford, Waco District Director for the 1970 Census, emphasized that secrecy of the information gathered is guaranteed by law with a $1,000 fine and up to two years in prison for improper disclosure of the information.

Most households will receive a three-page form with 23 questions which takes about 15 minutes to fill out.

Three out of 20 households will receive forms with 66 questions -- the same 23 plus 43 additional questions. The longest, most detailed forms will have a total of 73 questions and will be answered by one out of 20 households.

The penalty for refusal to complete the form is $100 fine or up to 60 days imprisonment, or both. For wilfully giving false answers, the penalty is $500 or up to one year imprisonment, or both.

Preliminary head counts will be available for most local areas by the end of May because all of the census data will be tabulated by computer.

The 1970 census is expected to show increases over 1960's census when 22,263 were counted in Milam County, 5,823 in Cameron, and 4,510 in Rockdale.

R-Bud, Lott Consolidate Districts

Voters in Lott and Rosebud voted Saturday to consolidate their two school districts into one, opening the way for a new high school to serve both communities.

In Lott the vote was 228 for and 49 against consolidation and in Rosebud, 451 for and 36 against.

Last Saturday voters in Rosebud approved a $1.3 million school bond issue to build a new high school. The issue hinged on a majority of Lott and Rosebud voters approval of consolidation.

The new school will be built at Travis, mid-way between the two cities on a 41-acre tract.

"The vote was overwhelming proof of what the people in both communities want to do," said Billy Bates, superintendent of Rosebud schools.

An interim school board will be appointed to run the two districts until a new joint school board is elected in April.

The new district will be called the Rosebud - Lott Consolidated School District.

Mail Service Extends To Town Fringe

A new program to expand mail service has been announced by the United States Postmaster General this week. Under the program, persons living more than a quarter of a mile, but less than a half mile from post offices will receive mail service at home.

The announcement came in a release from Cong. W. R. Poage.

The Postmaster General said the new program will serve at least four million Americans who have not had rural mail service.

He said that the only requirement for a community to receive this additional service is for the Postmaster to request it, showing that a majority of the people in the area want it.

In Milam County, the new program will give additional service to Buckholts, Burlington, Gause, Milano and Thorndale.

Area postmasters said most of the people covered by the new program were already receiving mail delivery service in Milam County.

Postmasters Walter Marek at Burlington and Edwin Zajicek at Buckholts said they would extend the service on request, but felt that most of their fringe area was serviced by rural mail delivery.

Due to the changing technology, another YHS senior has joined the production staff of The Herald, Miss Renee Cummings, who is working afternoons after school on layout and design in the newspaper. She joins columnist Jane Callaway who writes the YHS weekly column, "Doors of Yoe."

Workmen are busy linking The Herald's existing front office with the back for additional room for typesetting equipment and headsetting machinery. Layout tables temporarily set up in the main office will be set up in a new composition department, which once housed the linotypes and make-up departments of the letterpress Herald.

Herald office layout is being broadened for plans for a new department or two within the news and circulation departments.

So it is "hammer, hammer" as we try to adjust our space to the broadening needs of news, ad and composition personnel within the operation.

Yoe Edges Georgetown R-Rock Next

A homegame with Round Rock here Friday night will determine whether Cameron's Yoemen win their first district basketball championship in modern memory.

The Yoemen went to Georgetown Tuesday night to edge the Eagles 63-59 for a win toward an 8-1 district record identical to co-leader Round Rock.

Now 17-10 for the season, the Yoemen trailed Georgetown until the final 3 minutes. Tall Todd Walker left the game on fouls after scoring 28 points, Georgetown losing the margin with him.

Coach Ron Murdock credited team bench strength with the win.

Guard Robert Brashear and forward Willie White flicked in 20 points each, while Ken McLerran meshed 10. McLerran subbed for John Steamer, slowed by first-half fouls, and rallied the Yoemen.

Winfred DeBose scored 15 points to lead the Yoe JV's in an easy win over the Junior Eagles, 49-34. Georgetown won the frosh game, 57-35. Freshmen Dennis Hardwick and Will turner each scored 10 points.

Murdock looked to a "Friday the 13th" game with Round Rock who are the only club to defeat the Yoemen in 17-AA play.

Homecourt, like home gridiron, may help Murdock's Yoemen, he suggested. But another team effort will be essential to bring off a win.

School officials anticipated a record basketball crowd Friday night at Yoe Gym for the feature game, which begins at 8 p.m.

A pep rally is scheduled prior to the Friday district finale. The YHS pep band will play.

Wells Won't Seek Post On Council

Councilman R. W. Wells has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the Cameron City Council in the April election.

Wells has served as Councilman, Place 2, for about six years.

In a statement issued this week Wells said, "I have enjoyed serving our community as a Councilman for approximately six years, and I will continue to be available for civic duties."

Incumbent Lester Turner has filed for re-election to Place 1 on the Council and Monroe Fuchs, Cameron businessman, has filed for election to Place 2.

In the mayoral election, incumbent E. A. Perrin has filed for re-election.

No other candidates have filed for councilman or for mayor, according to City Secretary Buddy Fuller.

Accident Injures 2

Two local youths were injured Saturday night when their pickup ran off the road and hit an embankment during a heavy fog.

Tim Titsworth of Rt. 1 Cameron, driver of the pickup, and Jimmy Rivers, also of Cameron received minor injuries in the one-vehicle accident. Tim's nose was broken and Jimmy's forefead was cut.

The accident happened about 11:45 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Farm Road 949 and US 190, according to Highway Patrolman Leroy Broadus. Fog had reduced visibility on county roads that night.

The youths were taken to a Temple hospital by Tim's father, C. Titsworth and were released after treatment.

Hearing Set For Youths

A hearing has been set in Milam County Juvenile Court at 10:30 Friday morning for four Cameron youths in connection with two local burglaries on Sunday night.

According to police reports, tires, oil, cigars and cigarettes were taken from Claud Sanders' Enco service station on Highway 77 Sunday night.

Entrance to the station was gained by breaking a window on the north side of the station.

The concession stand at the 77 Drive In theatre was also robbed of candy and other merchandise. The door to the stand was forced to gain entry.

Police Chief John Shearin said all the merchandise from both businesses was recovered and the case was turned over to juvenile authorities.

D. R. Dodson, superintendent of Cameron Schools, will be on the program for the winter meeting of the American Association of School Administrators in Atlantic City, New Jersey next week.

Dodson will participate in a discussion on teachers aids, "New Careers in Education - Para-Professional.

Trustee Files For Election

Charles McDermott filed Monday for a third term on the Cameron School Board. Dr. John Martin and Forrest Sapp, whose terms also expire this April, filed previously.

McDermott is seeking his third term as a school trustee. He and Sapp were elected to the board in 1964. Martin, School Board Secretary, was elected in 1968.

Deadline for filing in the April 4 school election is March 5. Dr. Martin said candidates could file either with him or at the office of the Superintendent of Schools.

VALENTINES--Second graders Michael Schiller and Jana Hause smile for the "Be My Valentine" time at Ben Milam School. Elementary students throughout the Cameron system swap valentines among friends and classmates in a renewal of the traditional friendship observance.

Child Care Movement . . . .

Leaders of the child-care center movement are seeking to establish an OEO relationship with Robertson County, which seeks to reorganize.

Child care is the primary purpose of the Milam effort while the Robertson - Brazos relationship would open up other possibilities for other services in Milam County, at, as we understand it, no cost to Milam Countians.

The child care movement is worthy of funding. And a tie with Robertson County for such funding is feasible as long as other programs available through OEO do not overlap those already functioning and effective in Milam County. The test should be efficiency and thoroughness of the program.

A child care center will serve a public purpose and a private one in that it will ascertain care for needy children whose mothers may then be available for work or training for work.

Scouting: '70's Standard . . . .

Boy Scouts are citing their "week" February 7-13. It's a good thing, of course.

We never thought a group like the Boy Scouts would be considered an alternative to a group like the "hips", who have been publicized outside of all proportion to numbers.

Things Scouts learn and represent are often unpopular among kids Scout age and among college-age students and adults. Oddly enough, we teach our kids to be "good Scouts" or try, at least, then tell them that kind of thing is "kid stuff" when they enter adult life.

So the "hip" is popular and changes styles, mores and direction of a whole generation of the Western World. And then an archtype of the "hip" beckons violence in his behalf and begins his own defense in a ludicrous trial like that involving hip leader Manson in California.

We know the alternatives to Scouting. They are all around. As long as Scouting lives up to its high standards, however, the alternatives won't be as interesting to young people of the '70's as those of the '60's.

City, Rural School Feud Due Airing In Fed Court

By Vern Sanford
AUSTIN

A feud between big city and rural school districts over the cost of education is expected to go to federal court soon in a major lawsuit.

Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston school boards questioned the "financial fairness" of collection and distribution of the state's minimum foundation funds.

They claim that the distribution formula favors rural districts. A bill to correct this brought a storm of protest from rural districts during last year's legislative session. Best the legislature could come up with under the circumstances was a bill creating an 18-member committee to recommend "a fair and equitable basis for a division of financial responsibilities between the state and the various local districts of Texas."

Suit will seek statewide uniform property tax valuations. Action is due to be directed against the State Board of Education.

Meanwhile, the Texas Research League pointed out that aid to local school districts is the most expensive obligation of state government and most important determinant of future tax requirements.

Expansion of the foundation school program and teacher pay raises voted last year will increase state expenditures for public elementary and secondary education by $345 million in the current biennium and will produce an additional 50 per cent increase in total state costs during the next six years.

Cumulative total increase in state aid for a six-year period is calculated at $1.6 billion in new state funds. Higher salaries account for 65 per cent of this.

Research League predicts that the legislature will have to raise $298 million in new funds for public schools next year, $270 million more in 1973 and $186 million more in 1975.

LICENSING EMPHASIZED

Department of Public Safety is launching a statewide program emphasizing driver licensing. A study showed that many of the serious traffic accidents involved unlicensed drivers.

Col. Wilson E. Speir, DPS director, said the drive is in conjunction with Gov. Preston Smith's coordinated traffic safety program. Studies revealed that 9.6 per cent of drivers involved in fatal accidents were unlicensed. Here's what the program will undertake immediately:

--To urge all drivers to see that they are properly licensed.
--Provide for periodic, frequent license checks by patrolmen.
--Develop special training schools for those who need more knowledge and skill to qualify for driver licenses.

--Urge employers in large plants and business establishments to encourage employees to obtain proper licenses, particularly those moving to Texas from other states.

Safety groups and local agencies will be called on to aid.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

In separate opinions, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin settled the debate over when the terms of two Texas judges expire. Both Judge Joseph Cohn Jr. of Nueces County Court-at-law No. 2 and Judge Paul Huser of the 155th District Court at Hallettsville will have to stand for election this year, he ruled.

Cohn's Court was created by a 1967 law that set his first term from 1968 to 1972. But Martin said that the Constitution provides that county judges be elected in 1966, 1970, 1974 and so forth.

Huser was elected in 1968 to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge Lee Dittert. In 1967, the Legislature changed the boundaires of the 155th District, and the question was whether the change meant that Huser's 1968 election was for a new four-year term. Martin ruled that the change didn't effect the term, and that Huser's term would expire at the end of this year.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded that:

Motion picture employees are subject to regulation by the Texas minimum wage act of 1970.

Where city and county enter into a contract for the county tax assessor-collector to act for the city, property in the city must be assessed at the same value as for the county and state purposes. (Collection fee must not exceed one pee cent of collections.)

Texas Optometry Board executive secretary is a board employee rather than an executive head and is to be paid travel expenses in line with rates set out in the general appropriations bill.

COURTS SPEAK

Texas Supreme Court was called on to decide whether Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall is eligible to run for governor in view of a constitutional provision that a legislator must serve out his term before running for an office created or for which the pay was raised, during his tenure. (Hall voted with other legislators to increase the governor's salary from $40,000 to $55,000 a year.)

Supreme Court finalized judgment that Army Sgt. Albert Buckman Wharton III is sole heir to the $45 million Electra Waggoner estate.

Court held that the City of San Antonio acquired title to two floodwater and sedimentation control easements in condemnation proceedings against the San Antonio River Authority.

It concluded that the City of Houston and Houston Independent School District cannot collect delinquent taxes and penalties from Alamo Barge Lines Inc. on tugs and barges owned from 1953 through 1962.

Arguments before the High Court were set for March 4 on the suit between Tenneco Oil Company and Padre Drilling Company Inc. over a wildcat oil well in Zavala County. Tenneco argues that Padre Company is not entitled to payments because the well was not completed.

District Court here granted a temporary restraining order to stop the City of Galveston from allowing treasure hunters to excavate in Pelican Park, citing the new antiquities code.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editor:

People are always saying "history will record so and so," forgetting that history is mostly what some self-appointed historians claim it is, but nonetheless I got to speculating the other day on what history will record as the most important event in the past 10 years.

Landing on the moon? Discovering pollution? Anti-ballistic missiles? Airplanes that hold 500 people? Color television? Discovering some vaccine we haven't heard about yet?

As outstanding as these things are, they won't compare with something I read on page 14 in a newspaper last night.

According to it, a manufacturer has perfected and is now offering for sale men's socks guaranteed to last a lifetime.

That's right. He says he guarantees they'll never wear out and if they do he'll replace them with a new pair free. He guarantees them against everything except losing them in the laundry or having them pulled off the clothes line by a playful dog.

Now I haven't seen any of these socks and can't vouch for them but it's the idea that appeals to me.

It never had occurrred to me before, but say the average man or boy wears out a dozen pairs of socks a year. With a hundred million males in this country, that's 12 hundred million pairs, or 24 hundred million socks thrown away each year. No small item of pollution in itself.

But in addition to the anti-pollution side effects, it's a giant stride in the right direction. In this modern society of ours things don't last long enough. Everything wears out too soon.

Think of the huge amounts of money the world can save if some day not only socks can be handed down from father to son but also shirts, suits, automobile tires, guided missiles, paved highways, television tubes, water fawcets, hydrogen bombs and all those other things man is always tinkering with and producing new models of, when any of them ought to last forever.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

LS Gas Co. Earnings At Record High

DALLAS

Lone Star Gas Company earnings increased in 1969 to $1.59 per share, and a record consolidated operating revenue was also achieved, Louis G. James, president, said today.

Consolidated net income for Lone Star and its wholly owned subsidiaries totaled a record $23,311,000, a $2,230,000 increase over 1968. Per share earnings of $1.59 were up 15 cents. Record consolidated operating revenues of $236,557,000 were up $13,516,000, or 6 %.

James said that a program begun late in 1969 to increase rates for gas sold to residential and commercial customers in Texas is over 90 % complete. Although the rate program had only a minor effect on 1969 earnings, an additional $11 million in residential and commercial gross revenue is expected for 1970. Rate schedules applicable to industrial customers are also being increased.

First major impact of the new rates is anticipated in the first quarter of 1970. Record January gas deliveries of 52.6 billion cubic feet were recorded, including a new 24-hour send-out record of 2.242 billion cubic feet established January 7.

Despite high demands for gas in 1969, Lone Star improved its gas reserves position during the year. Year - end gas reserves rose to a record of about 7 trillion cubic feet.

Federal Minimum Wage Raises Pay Of Workers

WASHINGTON

Some 2,100,000 workers are due pay increases amounting to $486 million effective February 1, 1970, Wage-Hour Administrator Robert D. Moran announced recently.

The increases are due to a Federal minimum wage boost from $1.30 to $1.45 an hour for workers who were first brought under coverage of the Fair Labor Standards Act in 1966.

The $1.45 rate will apply chiefly to employees of smaller retail or service establishments, laundries and dry cleaners, hotels, motels and restaurants, schools, non - Federal hospitals, and nursing homes.

The new minimum remains in effect until February 1, 1971, when it will go to $1.60 an hour. The $1.60 rate already applies to 35,366,000 workers in employment who were subject to the Act before the 1966 Amendments.

Administrator Moran said the $486 million that workers stand to gain will benefit many members of minority groups working in low-wage jobs.

Moran said the increase in the minimum wage rate will not have an inflationary impact on the economy since it increases the annual wage bill of all covered employers by only 0.2 percent.

Wage-Hour has reminded approximately 2-1/4 million employers of the minimum wage change by sending them a folder highlighting the Act's basic requirements, with an official poster attached. Posters must be displayed where employees can easily see them.

Moran added that local Wage-Hour offices across the nation will answer questions about the Act, and/or provide additional posters.

Look For Specials In Meat Dept.

Since the biggest chunk of most food budgets goes for meat, look for plentiful cuts at special prices during weekend shopping.

Fryers are a good choice this week in most meat departments; frozen turkeys still are available and are selling at prices in the same range as during the Christmas season, according to Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist at Texas A&M University.

Look for best beef values on round steaks and roasts, ground beef, short ribs, chuck roasts and steaks and beef liver.

Pork values include picnics, end-cut loin roasts and chops, shoulder roasts and steaks and pork liver.

To round out weekend meals economically, look for fresh fruit and vegetables featured at economical prices. Those in best supply, according to the specialist, are apples, oranges, grapefruit, bananas, tangerines, avocados, potatoes, head lettuce, celery, cabbage, carrots, sweet potatoes, dry yellow onions and tomatoes.

Fish Abundant in Texas

Texas has something like 100 species of fresh water fish. However, only a dozen are of interest to fishermen. Mainly they are bass, with catfish, crappie and bream in about that order.

60th Birthday For Scouts

The Boy Scouts of America are celebrating their 60th anniversary this week with Scouting events and demonstrations taking place across America.

Boys in today's changing world have essentially the same needs as they had in 1910 when Scouting emerged on the American scene. This program, serving an age span of 8 through 17, has for its objectives character development, citizenship training, and mental and physical fitness.

Scouting takes boys and young men as it finds them in neighborhood play groups, in preadolescent gangs, or in the more adultlike interest of social groups and works in a natural way to establish concepts of duty to God and country, consideration of others, and a concern for self that makes for an upright man who can stand on his own feet, work with his own hands, and think with his own mind.

The program begins by cementing those family ties so vital to a growing boy through the Cub Scouting program. In this program boys 8 through 10 enjoy activities that involve their parents, both in personal achievement and backyard play. Rubbing shoulders with other boys in a Cub Scout den starts the process of learning to live with others -- so fundamental to the well-adjusted man.

Although no sharp change takes place at 11, the boy's relationship to other boys and his parents does change. He becomes a member of a gang led by another boy. In Boy Scouting, two or more of these gangs (patrols) provide the basis of a larger group (the troop). Adult leaders administer the program so that boy leaders operate the troop. An adventurous outdoor program becomes the setting in which boys practice the ideals of the Scout Oath and Law.

Individual boys establish status among their peers by achieving prescribed ranks in an advancement program that provides recognition to spur them on to new growth. The patrol learns team play and in a rediMentary way gives its members experience in democratic living.

In Boy Scouting there is a conscious effort to place responsibility on young shoulders and allow them to carry it under the leadership of men of character.

The Boy Scouts of America provides another kind of program for high-school age boys, known as Exploring. This is a program based on the needs, desires, and concerns of high - school age boys. Custom-made, it provides opportunities for them to explore adultlike roles, select, plan, and carry out interesting activities within a pattern of operation geared to teach and re-enforce certain broad ethical aims.

Exploring's broad and flexible activities carried out in local posts incorporate a simple month - to - month pattern of operation supported by mautre recognition of leadership, service, and accomplishment. Run by elected young men officers with adult advisors and consultants, the program gives the boys of high school age an on-the-spot experience in the responsibilities and benefits of participating citizenship.

All three programs together -- Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting, and Exploring -- present a graduated series of experiences that, according to a carefully devised plan, prepare boys to take their place in a free society as participating citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fontaine visited his mother, Mrs. Hazel Fontaine over the weekend.

Peanuts Paying For Remodeling

Boy Scouts will soon have a re-roofed and repainted meeting place-if peanut sales remain good.

The local Scouts are working on a fund raising project to refurbish the presently unusable Boy Scout House at Wilson-Ledbetter Park.

Ten gallons of paint have been donated and parents have volunteered their time for the roof repairs. Proceeds from the peanut sales will buy materials.

Members of Felix Matula's Troop 52 are selling the canned peanuts downtown on Saturdays.

RISD Sets Election For 2 Trustees

The Board of Trustees of the Rogers Independent School District in regular monthly meeting Thursday night, called for an election on April 4 to elect two trustees for three-year terms.

The election will be held in the high school library from 8 a.m. until 7p.m.

Woodson Waits and H. H. Wright, both incumbent trustees, announced for re-election.

Candidates for the two positions must file with the school superintendent or with the Board secretary 30 days prior to the election, with the signed endorsement of five voters of the school district.

Absentee voting may be done in the office of Mrs. Billye Synatzske within 20 days from the date of the election.

In other business, the board hired E. L. Miller as custodian. He lives in the school district on Route 2, Rosebud.

The resignation of Mrs. Bobbie Sue Petrick as junior high teacher was accepted, with effective date the last of February, 1970.

The Board took a first look at the tentative budget for 1970-71; heard a report that 90% of 1969 school taxes have been paid through January; and heard a report on correspondence of Supt. B. F. Harbour and members of Congress from here concerning the education bill veto of President Nixon.

Planting Is Not Landscaping Fleur de lis Garden Club Told

"There is no better investment than landscaping," Mrs. J. A. Bowling told Fleur de lis Garden Club members Tuesday night. "But merely planting shrubs is no landscaping. That requires planning, execution and upkeep."

Mrs. Bowling was guest speaker for the Fleur de lis meeting at the home of Mrs. Roy Boutwell. Mrs. Glen Pullen was co-hostess.

Mrs. Bowling said home yards should have three distinct areas: public area, service area and private area.

She suggested the public area be limited to foundation plantings, lawn and trees.

"Walks should be wide enough for two people," Mrs. Bowling said," the longer the walk the wider it should be." She said plantings in the public area should be simple and dignified and shrubs should be varieties that prune well. Trees should have deep roots and be non-shedding varieties.

"Don't drown your lawn with too frequent waterings," Mrs. Bowling cautioned. She recommended one good watering not more than once a week even in the driest season.

Service areas should be screened from view with offset planting. Mrs. Bowling suggested cherry laurel as a good screening shrub.

"Play areas should reflect the needs of the family with space for unrestricted play for children.

Mrs. Bowling said the private or garden area should have easy access to the house and should be planned as an extension of the living portion of the house.

"Water creates interest in the garden area," Mrs. Bowling said. "A small pond or fountain, sculpture or furniture should be harmonious with plantings." She recommended a scattering of pot plants to add color and spaced planting of bulbs for longer blooming time.

Mrs. Bowling suggested using a garden hose to decide on the shape of planting beds that will most enhance the area.

Following the program Mrs. Durwood Cobb presented schedules for the Club spring flower show, "Flower Power." The annual show will be staged April 15 at Methodist Fellowship Hall.

Mrs. Griffin Barrett was elected a new member.

During the social hour cake and coffee were served in the dining room. Heart shaped cakes and red and white carnation centerpiece carried out the Valentine theme.

DOORS OF YOE

By Jane Callaway

Now that I've caught my breath between school and everything else --- HELLO! I don't know whether there's really THAT much to do, or that I'm such a poor organizer of my time. Probably a little of both.

Mrs. McDermott, we're glad you are back with us. That flu bug really got you.

Well, cheerleaders, you finally got your jackets! Renee, you should be a little more believing! Congratulations to you and the football boys. They merit our thanks for a job well done! Of course, our BAND jackets are better, but---! I'll leave that open for argument.

Since you had last heard from me, I had a birthday. I know that isn't news to you, but it was my eighteenth. That's supposed to make me grown or something! The number of years doesn't make the difference---I guess it has to be the way we act, talk, accept responsibility and the like. Well, I have the years---now I can work on all the rest. My day was just great what with all the nice things done for me. Thanks to everyone.

Our play (senior play, of course) is coming along great. Mr. Dusek, I don't know how you manage to put up with all of us! It will be given February 20-21. Mark that date on your calendar!

This week in school is the election for Student Council president. Edward Whitley, Jerry Richardson, and Harry Perrin are running. Good luck to all of you! Carolyn, you've done a great job this year.

Everyone taking either a math or science course, or just wants to enter, is working on a Science Fair project. Linda J., I'm sorry about your rat.

Good luck to our basketball team. We're tied with Round Rock for the district championship. Friday night is the crucial game against Round Rock. It will be here, so everyone be sure and come. The boys have appreciated the support, so let's keep it up!

QUOTE: Exactly fifty years ago my father gave me the words I have lived by ever since. He was a physician. I had just started to study law at the Budapest University. I failed one examination. I thought I could not survive the shame so I sought escape in the consolation of failure's closest friend, alcohol, always at hand; apricot brandy to be exact.

My father called on me unexpectedly. Like a good doctor he discovered both the trouble and the bottle, in a second. I confessed why I had to escape reality.

The dear old man then and there improvised a prescription. He explained to me that there can be no real escape in alcohol or sleeping pills--or in any drug. For any sorrow there is only one medicine, better and more reliable than all the drugs in the world: work!

How right my father was! Getting used to work might be hard. Sooner or later you succeed. It has, of course, the quality of all the narcotics. It becomes habit-forming. And once the habit is formed, sooner or later, it becomes impossible to break one's self of it. I have never been able to break myself of the habit for fifty years. End Quote.

Increasing Grain Sorghum Yields

By J. D. Moore,
Milam County

Ben Spears, agronomist from A&M, gave the following tips on increasing grain sorghum yields at the county grain sorghum meeting held on January 29 here in Cameron.

Spears used the term "extra kick" in pointing out the use of disease resistant varie- - ties, quality grain, row spacing, plant one pound seed for each expected 700 lbs of grain per acre, and do the right thing at the right time as near as possible, to get the extra kick out of your present program.

Dr. R. D. Palmer, agronomist in chemical weed control, answered many questions as he discussed chemical weed control.

We can use herbicides regularly if we use the correct rates, according to Dr. Palmer. Our problem is to help people understand the selective use of herbicides.

Some are designed to control broadleaf weeds, while others are selective for grass control.

Since the control of root Johnsongrass is a major problem in Milam County, Dr. Palmer recommends the rotation of grain sorghum with cotton and control Johnson grass while the cotton crop is on the land.

Herbicidal oils used as a direct on spot spray is best for root Johnsongrass.

How about using mixtures of chemicals for weed control? This can be done but the cost will be greater.

One lb of Herban plus one lb of propazine broadcast premerge can be used. However, if this treatment is put out in a 12 to 14 inch band, use 1/2 the rate for less cost and control the weeds and grass in between the bands with a sweep.

Milogard (propazine) used in a band at the rate of .5 to .7 lbs per acre is our most popular practice. Treflan is used by some where excessive grass is expected.

Ways to reduce carry over of chemicals in the soils - Dr. Palmer recommends banding herbicides as possibly the most common practice to use to reduce residue.

The use of just enough to control weeds and grass, maintain good mositure, keep soils fertile, areate soils, keep organic matter high, grow crop to maturity and have a long range plan made for land use are ways to reduce carry over of residual chemicals.

B-1029, suggestions - weed control with chemicals, is available at the county agents office.

SCS NEWS

"It's too wet to plow!" I am sure that almost everyone has heard this old expression before. If the soil is wet and you are plowing, there is a chance your tractor may get stuck.

But there is also another reason for staying out of the field after a rain. This reason is much more costly than getting stuck. Should the tractor become stuck someone can be found to pull it out of the mud. However, plowing in a field where the mosture level is too high can destroy the soil structure.

In order to understand why destruction of soil structure can be costly, we need to know something about it.

A soil is made up of particles that vary in shape and size. Many soils do not have a good structure to begin with and this condition can become even more severe if these soils are plowed wet.

Plants must have both air and water for proper growth. A plant not receiving the proper elements for growth will result in low yielding plants which quickly lowers your income and that costs you money.

Soil structure can be easily destroyed by plowing a soil where mositure content is too high. When a soil is plowed wet the clay particles are squeezed together into a gummy mass; even after drying, the soil remains hard, puddled and cloddy with no room for air or moisture.

Suppose some of the fields on your place have been plowed too wet and they show characteristics similar to ones described - what can be done to correct this problem? Once a soil has been broken down it is difficult to restore to its natural state.

The best method of restoring structure to the soil is by addition of organic matter. This can be done in several ways.

The addition of livestock manure or hay to the field, but both of these methods can be expensive. Probably the most effective as well as economical method is to leave crop residue on the land.

Soil structure can be restored through a sound crop residue and soil management program. A program which will pay off in the form of increased crop yields as well as improving the workability of the soil.

So next time "it is too wet to plow" stay out of the field and go by the Soil Conservation Service office and ask about a crop residue program to improve or maintain good soil structure on your farm.

Pasture Rotation Aids Animals And Ranges

COLLEGE STATION

It's animal moving time for ranchers involved in a pasture rotation system. It is also time for those who haven't previously implemented this program to do so.

"A pasture rotation system benefits both the livestock and the range land," Extension Range Specialist Dan Rodgers said. "It is especially helpful to range grasses during the critical periods of low food reserves during early growth and at seed set."

The pasture rotation system, commonly known as the Merrill System, was developed in the late 1940's at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Sonora.

In experiments during the drought of the fifties, there was an actual increase in the stocking rate of one-third, Rodgers said.

During this same time, while others were losing animals from bitterweed poisoning, there were no losses on the rotation pastures, he continued.

"The system consists of four pastures and three herds of livestock, with one pasture always being rested for a four month period," Rodgers explained. "At the end of four month period, one herd is always moved to the rested pasture."

Under this system, each pasture is grazed for 12 months and then rested for four months, thereby allowing each pasture to have one rest period in each season when the cycle is completed in four years.

"This benefits all desirable grasses regardless of when their critical growth periods occur," Rodgers said.

"A rotation system should be used by East Texas ranchers too," Rodgers said. "Their rotation period would have to depend on the amount of growth each season."

While in West Texas the rotation system is used to provide stability through the frequent droughts, in East Texas a rotation system should be used to take advantage of excess forage production caused by unusually high rainfall, Rodgers concluded.

Urban Growth Cuts Ag Lands

Urban growth in Texas is steadily cutting into the State's agricultural lands, a new USDA study indicates.

The conservation needs and land use inventory shows that during the decade of 1958-1967, agricultural land in Texas dropped by some 780,000 acres. This represents an area bigger than an average Texas county.

The report shows that 500,000 acres of this land went into urban and built-up areas; some went to federal uses; and a lesser amount went under water in ponds and reservoirs.

For the nation, the ten-year shift from agricultural lands totaled almost 15 million acres.

The inventory also reveals that two out of three acres in Texas still need some form of soil and water conservation treatment. The figures came from county data prepared by state and federal agencies, then summarized by a State Committee chairec by the Soil Conservation Service.

State Conservationist Clyde W. Graham said that although many critical conservation problems have been solved in Texas in the last 30 years, some 103 million acres of rural lands still need conservation treatment.

"Much of this 103 million acres has had some conservation treatment, yet it still needs one or more conservation measures," Graham pointed out. "And most of this land needs treatment every year -- especially cropland."

Graham said that in terms of acres, grassland improvement is still the state's biggest conservation problem.

He cited these grassland needs: About 50.6 million acres need brush control followed by careful management, including periodic rests. Some 22.3 million acres of this land has deteriorated to the extent that reseeding is needed after the brush is controlled.

Graham stressed, however, that when brush is controlled on grassland, wildlife needs should be considered carefully. He said strips or motts of brush should usually be left for wildlife food and cover.

Some 19 million acres of grazing lands need only improved grazing use. This is land that has been grazed too closely but still has a stand of desirable grasses; all it needs for improvement is better management.

About 13.2 million acres need both rest and better grazing use to let the base grasses improve in vigor and increase soil cover.

ASCS News

By Alva E. Sanders

Producers in the 1970 feed grain and wheat programs may choose to put their diverted acres in one or more of eight non-surplus crops.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced the following alternate crops will be permitted on acreage diverted from production of wheat or feed grains: Castor beans, guar, sesame, plantago ovato, mustard seed, crambe, sunflower and safflower.

Safflower and sunflower may be planted only on additional acreage diverted under the feed grain and wheat programs, but not on the acreage required to be diverted by program participants. The six other crops are permitted on the diverted acreage required as a condition for participation in the programs.

Both the feed grain and wheat programs have provision for voluntary acreage diversion beyond the minimum required diversion. Any of the eight crops listed--including sun flower and safflower -- may be planted on this additional diverted acreage.

If one or more of the alternate crops are planted on diverted acres, a per-acre reduction will be made in farm payments otherwise earned. Where safflower and sunflower are planted, this reduction will be 100 percent of the applicable payment rate for additional diversion. On any of the other six crops, the reduction will be 50 percent of such rate.

Deduction from price-support payments will be made for plantings on the required diversion acres.

Producers who need additional information regarding the alternative choices under the programs should contact the Milam County ASCS Office.

Sign-up in the voluntary farm programs will continue through March 20.

Community Award Open

Applications to compete for the new Governor's Community Achievement Award are due March 1 and should mailed to the Beautify Texas Council, Box CS, College Station 77843, according to Jack Sloan, Extension resource development specialist and council secretary.

Gov. Preston Smith will honor the winning community at the Beautify Texas Council meeting June 11 at Austin's Terrace Motor Hotel.

Four regional Texas Chambers of Commerce and the council are cooperating with the Governor's Texas Communities Tomorrow program in the award to select the Texas community that has made the most progress in improving the quality of living for its citizens.

Any community with 12,000 or less estimated population is eligible. The letter of application should include the name of community, population and signature of officer of sponsoring organization or a city official.

Reports on improvements are not due until April 15, Sloan said. These will give a summary of citizen's participation and education, economic development, community-wide beautification and property improvement.

LOSE 10 LBS IN 10 DAYS ON GRAPEFRUIT DIET

This is the revolutionary grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories plants and offices throughout the U.S.

Because this diet really works. We have testimonials reporting on its success. If you follow it exactly, you should lose 10 pounds in 10 days. No weight loss in the first four days but you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1 1/2 pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all, there will be no hunger pangs. Revised and enlarged, this diet lets you stuff yourself with formerly "forbidden" foods, such as steaks trimmed with fat, roast or fried chicken, gravies, mayonnaise, lobster swimming in butter, bacon fats, sausages and scrambled eggs and still lose weight. The secret behind this "quick weight loss" diet is simple. Fat does not form fat. And the grapefruit juice in this diet acts as a catalyst (the "trigger"), to start the fatburningprocess. You stuff yourself on the permitted food listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. A copy of this startling successful diet can be obtained by sending $2 to

QUIK CO.

Money - back guarantee. If after trying the diet you have not lost 7 pounds in the first seven days, another 6 pounds in the next 7 days, and 1 1/2 pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded promptly and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Decide now to regain the trim attractive figure of your youth.
